"FIRE RAZES the old Blucher palace in Berlin, just bought for $1,800,000, for a United States embassy."
An intelligent fire. It might have done worse. It reminds the United States that their government, in depression and unemployment, spends $1,800,000 to supply a palace to an American ambassador who gets his job usually, as a reward for contributions to a campaign fund.
A man rich enough to help finance a President is rich enough to rent his own palace. He needs one.
This is a business country. Its ambassadors should have a business office, and board and lodge themselves as other Americans do.

To suggest that squandering money in that fashion impresses foreigners is foolish. The Germans know we have the money, why prove to them that we lack common sense?
A nation that shudders at the thought of handing a dollar to a half-starved family should shudder also at the thought of buying a palace for a series of political ambassadors' favorites. That nonsense ought to stop.

Next Sunday "kindness-to-animal week" begins. Mrs. Bella, head of the New York Anti-Vivisection Society, will give medals for heroism to six dogs. The dogs would prefer six good bones, but that does not spoil the kind-hearted idea. Men keep dogs and give them medals. If dogs kept men they would give bones to heroic men.
In the long run, after a hundred or a thousand years, it won't make much difference whether you got a medal or a bone. Nobody will know anything about it.
The greatest kindness to animals would be their gradual elimination, as their usefulness ends. Why breed faithful dogs to lick your feet?

Not long ago Henry Ford had nothing. But he was thinking and working. Last Tuesday he drove from his factory to his own residence in his Ford car number TWENTY-THREE MILLION. He made the first in 1933, and the 20,000,000th will stand in the Ford museum beside the first. Ford has made automobiles enough to carry 100,000,000 men being in fact, our entire population of 125,000,000, without packing them too tightly the babies sitting on their parents' knees to get to work and work. Neither by itself will carry you far.

Russia has no death penalty for murder, but makes a mockery for dishonesty and treachery. A week ago six were sentenced to death in connection with grain transactions. Now 10 more must die for the same offense, and 50 go to prison as "interstate class enemies."

At the same time Russia invites skilled workers from other countries to come and earn good wages.
Workers will wonder that there isn't in Russia anybody out of a job. American hotel magazines that it is almost impossible to rent a hotel room in Russia. He was delighted to get a small room by special favor with no carpet on the floor, paying 18 American dollars a week.
Some of our best financial minds, that once had only contempt for Russia, may find it going over to find out how they do it.

The Spanish king went to Marzelle, on a battleship. The queen went to Paris, perhaps for shopping. It reminds you of the old rhyme about the king "counting out his money," and the queen, "in the parlor, eating bread and honey."
The queen may be in the Rue de la Paix today, looking spring styles. The king may be counting up his money. Doubtless, he has put aside enough to take care of his family.

Yesterday brought disagreeable news of rioting and bloodshed in Spain. Foreign authorities are like dictators, more severe than kings, and will know how to stop that, probably.
Associated Press reports that the republic will "increase liberty," enforce "respect for all religious creeds," and "modify the agrarian policy to benefit the farmer." Recent American history will inform them that it is not so easy for a republic to benefit farmers.

The colors of the new republic are draped on the new republic of the royal palace in Madrid. A new chapter begins in Spain. It may not last forever. Spain has an ancient reputation in 1931. It had four presidents. One lasted four months, one six weeks, one seven weeks, one a few days; then came a dictator-ship. And then the Bourbons, Alfonso's family, came back.

BRUSH FIRE CHECKED 20 FEET FROM POWDER KEGS

TWO BUILDINGS ARE SAVED IN A HARD BATTLE

Sharon Blaze Burning Over 10,000 Acres Again Gets Out of Control

Flames swept within 20 feet of two buildings filled with blasting powder near Wrentham, in the quarry section of West Quincy today as a brush fire, one of scores of big and little woodlands first blazing through Massachusetts, was extinguished after a stubborn battle.

It was the second time in as many days that powder buildings were threatened by fire, yesterday's danger being at Acton.

The disastrous wood fire in the Sharon region, having already swept over 10,000 acres of forest and brush, got out of control and was whipped by a freshening wind into a dangerous fire in its path.

One of the day's first fires was along the Wrentham road in Palmer where the flames were still running after burning over 20 acres. The danger throughout the state mounted hourly, because of the continued lack of rain, which is the only thing that will save the situation.

Thousands of acres of brush and woodland have already been swept by flames and early today hundreds of acres of land were either burning or still smoldering. For a time it was feared that the fire in the Sharon region, the 22,000-acre estate, would be destroyed in the fire in the Sharon region. The buildings were all in the path of the fire and their destruction seemed imminent until a fall in the wind enabled firemen to prevent further spread of the flames.

DAMAGE AT MEHLEN

An old barn and several sheds had been destroyed and one residence considerably damaged by this time. Firemen from Sharon, Canton, Walpole, Andover, North Andover and Newburyport, assisted by numerous volunteers, battled the flames. In all about 500 men were employed in the fight.

Another fire broke out in Norton and had burned over more than 100 acres before it was checked.

A large number of summer cottages around Lake Winnepesaukee, Norton, were threatened by this fire, and the owners were hurriedly endeavoring to get their property out of the area.

Over a dozen damage was done in another fire which raged over 100 acres of farmland on Lowell road, in Melrose. Two barns and a cottage, with several times of hay, early implements and stock wool were destroyed, with damage estimated at $2,000. The farm is owned by William Dooley.

The farm dwelling was saved by water pumped from the Merrimack river 500 feet away. A number of cows and horses were killed and several saved. The blaze was under control soon after dark last night.

BRIDGE IS BURNED

At Milton the bridge spanning the rapid transit line across the Neponset river was burned and traffic was shut for several minutes before the blaze was controlled. It is the first time since the section but none did any serious damage.

Fire in 20 other parts of the state were reported either under control or out of control. Fire Warden H. C. Hutchins stated that the situation in the state is as serious as at this time last year when between 100 and 150 fires were blazing over the State. He said he was not planning on asking that Governor Ely close the woods.

GIRLS ROTTEN IN JAIL; 5 HURT

Lumberton, N. C., April 15 (AP)—Five girls prisoners today staged a riot in the county jail setting fire to their bunk beds and hurling furniture at officers. Five officers and firemen were injured.

The girls ripped down electric light fixtures and broke window panes.

The jailer, who turned the prisoners into a corridor to save them from smothering from the smoke in their cells, was attacked. One of the girls was almost cut off with a knife.

The girls were overpowered and locked in cells containing no furniture.

The girls, inmates of a jail for delinquents, were placed in jail on charges of setting fire to a dormitory.

EX-CLERIC THREATENED TO THROTTLE HER, SAYS MRS. CALLAN

Socially Prominent Persons Called to Testify in Divorce Suit Against Former Cleric

BISHOP'S NIECE LISTS THREATS BY HUSBAND

Wife Tells of Tea Drinking at the Home of Speaker Saltonstall

There were three things which John J. Callan, former Wellesley rector, held against his wife. He considered her too gloomy. He considered her too suspicious.

She failed to patch up a quarrel between him and her family.

And furthermore, he told her on the day they parted, en route to the divorce court, that she had driven him to indifference in alcohol which is one of the two grounds of her divorce action now being heard in Dedham probate court.

THREATENED THROTTLE

And furthermore, again, he threatened to throttle her and throttle her alleged evidence of his cruelty, her other allegations.

Mrs. Callan, Boston society matron and niece of Bishop Lawrence, testified to these things on the witness stand, under cross-examination by her husband's attorney, John P. Feeley, today.

She was asked to relate what Callan had said to her on October 15, the day before she left him and one of the dates named in her specifications of intoxication and abuse. He told her this, she said:

"There are three things I have against you. You are too gloomy. You are too suspicious, and you have not tried to patch up the quarrel between me and your family."

"I have absolutely no more feeling of affection for you. You have killed all the love I had for you. You refuse to punish me. Any other man would have taken the love off you. The next time I will throttle you."

"You have driven me to drink just by that time."

TRICK TWICE

Atty. Feeley then won from Mrs. Callan the admission that Callan had not taken a drink between the time he returned from a trip to Mexico, on Oct. 5, until she left him.

"We tried to follow your testimony and you say the only time he threatened you was on June 4, 1929, and charged the steamship, when he hit you with a towel," said Feeley.

"They were the only outstanding lines," she replied.

"They are the only two you have referred to here."

"In court, yes," said Mrs. Callan.

Injuries suffered from her husband's treatment of her never received any medical attention, she admitted.

RELATES TEA EPISODE

It developed during her testimony that she and Callan once had been the guests of Speaker and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall and that there had been drinking—but only of tea.

The occasion of their tea at the Saltonstalls was sometime after September of 1929, following her return.

'GRAFT' PROBED BY GOODWIN

Behind closed doors, City Councilman A. Norton of Hyde Park was questioned today by Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Finance Commission, on his charges during last Monday's session of the Council that "graft" existed in the city purchasing department.

Norton was called by Goodwin at the request of Philip A. Chapman, superintendent of supplies for the city, whose department was hit by Chapman's questioning.

"Graft is a harsh word," Chapman said before the hearing. "It cannot be applied to me or to the employees in my department. I do not intend to let it go unchallenged."

VESTRI'S LOSS TOLD BY BOXER

New York, April 15 (AP)—A wave struck the starboard side of the steamer Vestri with a crash that sounded like an explosion before the vessel sank off the Virginia Capes November 12, 1923. Cleary James, negro boxer, testified today.

James, a passenger on the boat which went down with the loss of 112 lives, was a witness for claimants opposing the attempt of the vessel's owners in federal court to limit their liability to $50,000, the value of the ship's freight charges.

He said life boats were lowered with great difficulty. Just before he jumped from the stern to swim toward a float, James said he heard an officer cry out: "Everybody for themselves."

DEMPSEY HIRES NEVADA LAWYER

Reno, April 15 (UPI)—Jack Dempsey has answered Estelle Taylor's announced intention of filing a divorce action in California by retaining Dr. Robert E. Burns, a Nevada attorney, to represent him in his suit for divorce.

The former heavyweight champion held an extended conference with Burns, following which the attorney said:

"Dempsey does not care what his wife has to say about this action. I do not know on what grounds the divorce action will be filed, but that will be decided within the next day or so, and the suit will be pressed as soon as possible."

Dempsey's suit may be filed May 1, when a new law, permitting persons resident in the state for six weeks or more to start proceedings, becomes effective.

Dempsey spent the remainder of the day fishing for trout.

Chief of Police Henry Rogers took him to the Parson Hospital in Montague, where an attempt was made to determine the nature of his injuries.

Strained out near the trolley car barn in this town, the unconscious form of the bound man was discovered by W. C. Johnson of Orange, a motorist.

At the police station he was treated by Dr. H. R. Maher and revived sufficiently to give his name. He also told police he drove to Alton and returns with three men, but could not account for his condition.

NEGRO SCHOOL WINS OVER WILL

Judge Arthur W. Dolan, in Suffolk Superior Court today, ruled that the term "black" as applied to racial strains may be construed as indicating any mixture of negro and white blood.

The definition came in the will of the late Helen Lambert of Boston, in which she left $3000 to the Worcester Children's Home at Worcester Hill, Jamaica, in the West Indies.

The bequest was predicated upon the admission to the school each year of not less than five "black children."

The school's roster this year contained one full-blooded negro and a child, according to attorneys for C. W. Trust Co., executor of the will. However, since 13 of the school's 30 pupils are of mixed blood, the court ruled that the terms of the will were fulfilled and ordered the trust company to make the payment.

WOODS TO KEEP $860,000 PRIZE

Buffalo, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—Clayton C. Woods and his relatives may keep the $860,000 they won in the Irish Sweepstakes on the Grand National Sweepstakes, as far as the city of Buffalo is concerned.

Clayton L. Pollman, corporation counsel, this afternoon handed down an opinion in which he said that a city ordinance more than 100 years old, providing for a fraction of lottery winnings for the benefit of the poor, did not apply in this case, because the prize money was distributed outside the State of New York.

Girl Graduates to Don Cotton Dresses

Macon, Ga., April 16 (AP)—If resolutions mean anything, girl graduates in Georgia this June will blush in receiving their diplomas in dresses of cotton.

Acting on a suggestion of the Atlanta Constitution, the State Congress of Parents and Teachers here last night voted unanimously to request public school authorities to rule in favor of cotton material for graduation exercises.

Bride of Man, 91, Has to Account for Cash

Chicago, April 16 (AP)—All the money Theodore Wells, 91, has spent on his 45-year-old bride since they married last August, must be accounted for by her, the circuit court ruled yesterday in a suit brought by a receiver appointed on the plea of Wells' brother, Herbert, 87, Kingston, R. I. banker, charging that Theodore is incompetent and that Mrs. Wells spent $7500 in the first four months of their married life.

180 Chinese Home Defenders Slain

Tsinan, Shantung, April 16 (AP)—Reports that 180 of the 200 persons in a village near Tsinan, Shantung, had been massacred by bandits as a revenge measure were received here today.

Advice said the bandits wiped out the village because the people had opposed them on a previous occasion when they attempted to loot the settlement.

DOCTORS STUDY RECORDS IN SLAYING

as for the link that would join two aims of circumstantial evidence: the accused man's last ride with her on the night of her death; his two-day disappearance following it.

Dr. George Burgess Magrath, forensic pathologist, called into the office by the Massachusetts authorities, was expected to confer with Mr. Charles H. Bryan, who presented the autopsy, on the case. This conference was scheduled to be held in the morning, but it was postponed to the afternoon.

AIDS GALVIN STORY

The second was a visit from Miss B. Goldberg, Galvin's lawyer, who discussed the case with Mr. and Mrs. Galvin yesterday. Her information was given by Dr. H. B. Goldberg said, and this will be the last of the evidence against Galvin.

It is said that Galvin's original story, this statement constitutes the bulk of the evidence against Galvin in this case.

It is known that Galvin's statement has not the slightest shred of evidence against Galvin. He said the story related to him by Galvin.

UNSHAKEN BY ORILL

Galvin has related that Hathaway told him two strange men took the girl away. Galvin has retained confidence in his story up to the fire of questioning of officers of two states. He has been told to him by Hathaway, though the youth's attorney, later in the trial and presented further of a series of reconstructions of the events in the late that night.

The other statements said to have been made by Galvin during that night are of little consequence, with but one exception. A significant remark was made to Galvin's mother after Hathaway and Galvin returned to Galvin's apartment at home from Tiverton.

WAGE ON EVENTS

They had related what had happened and both Galvin and Hathaway were trying to convince Galvin that he should report the case to the police. Galvin went to the wife's bedroom and Hathaway said the mother where he was going. She said he wanted to talk to the wife but Hathaway said, according to information given official: "Take her to the cops. I'm going to get her out of here, they'll never get me."

What was said by Hathaway to Galvin after they left the apartment at New Boston and Hathaway, it is said, after midnight on their way to Tiverton still remains very vague to Galvin, according to his statements. He is also undecided about the conversation made by the pair and his actions on the night of the re-enactment of his story but not these assertions.

DOCTORS CONFEE

The Massachusetts state detective have been unable to bring back more than this out of Galvin.

Hathaway himself has not been questioned although it is now three weeks since the coroner's inquest. The coroner's inquest is still clouded in mystery and an effort has been made to get the youth's own story.

Atty-Gen. McLaughlin yesterday maintained the silence he assumed Thursday. It was learned, however, that a piece of clothing, alleged to have belonged to the dead girl and missing since her body was found, is in his possession.

Dr. Magrath yesterday conferred for some two hours with Dr. E. L. Peaslee, Treasurer Hospital pathologist, in the office of District Attorney Croucher. Dr. Peaslee at first dismissed the case as the possession of the district attorney at the coroner's inquest.

He claimed that Dr. Bryan was in charge of the autopsy on the dead girl and that Galvin was present but did not feel he should go into detail in the presence of anyone but Dr. Magrath.

Croucher pointed out that he was the official in charge of the Massachusetts investigation and that he and Atty-Gen. McLaughlin had agreed to cooperate in every way.

Dr. Peaslee then agreed and the conference was held. None of the details or results of the meeting were made public, however.

Duke of Genoa Dead

Turin, Italy, April 15.—The Duke of Genoa, uncle of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, died last night.

Boy Hurt as Cycle Crashes Into Truck

Badly injured, when, according to police, he rode his bicycle into the back of a heavy truck on Adams st., Dorchester, Frank Schmalz, 14, of Westville st., in City Heights, with a broken neck and a possible fracture of the skull.

The truck was operated by Theodore J. Harbin, of East Elm st., Dorchester.

Paramount Will Ban Crime Films

Atlanta, Ga., April 15.—Not because gangster pictures "cause crime waves," but because the public has been confused with entertainment of that character, no more pictures of gangster life will be put into production by the Paramount Company, according to an announcement made here by S. R. Kent, vice-president in charge of distribution.

Bault St., Mar. 10, April 15 (AP)—Bob Pennington, who debarred women from the Liable Club because he thought they could not be taught to lie like fishermen, is retiring as president, having encountered considerable criticism. The club has 800 fly fishermen as members.

WILKINS HOPES TO MOOR ZEPP AT NORTH POLE

Sir Robert Wilkins, world-renowned explorer, and Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous skipper of the transatlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin, revealed they have a "date" to meet at the North Pole.

Sir Robert expects to go there under the ice to his submarine Nautilus.

Dr. Eckener expects to go there by air in the Graf, largest dirigible ever to attempt so perilous a voyage.

By SIR ROBERT WILKINS
Copyright, 1931, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Yonkers, N. Y., April 15.—As one who has traversed the Arctic by air, I can readily envision the Graf Zeppelin, on which I traveled around the world, swooping out of the clouds above the North Pole, whilst we of the transpolar submarine, Nautilus, stand there on the ice ready to help moor the great dirigible.

As readily I can envision Dr. Eckener, in his Arctic garb, climbing down the Graf's awnings ladder, and striding with gusto across the ice to clasp our hands. I have a high opinion of Dr. Eckener's ability to bring the dirigible to a certain point, at a certain hour. Indeed, I regard Dr. Eckener's willingness to meet us at the Pole as a splendid tribute to the endurance of our plan.

CALLS PLAN FEASIBLE
We talked the whole thing over when we last met, and he not only regards our Arctic trip as feasible, but entertains the greatest expectation that it will be crowned with success.

The simultaneous flight of the Zeppelin to the "top of the world" holds this possibility—that in case we were to meet disaster, and perhaps be stranded in the vicinity of the Pole, Dr. Eckener could bring us all off alive in the dirigible.

Dr. Eckener and I have arranged to establish contact at the pole first by wireless, and then, if necessary, by smoke bombs.

QUESTION OF FINANCE
It is not yet finally decided Dr. Eckener will make the voyage. He is willing and ready to do so, provided the adventure can be suitably financed. Both he and I have hopes that this can be arranged.

If so, and both of us are able to keep the rendezvous at the pole, it would not only create a spectacle of man's new dominion of the sky and sea, but it would offer striking proof of the safety and security of the new under-the-ice lane of commerce that we are pioneering in the Nautilus.

Haven railroad, during the last year, saved $30,000, using trucks instead of freight cars.

In time railroads will use trucks to pick up freight at the factory, carry it to the tracks, then run on rails using steel wheels, at high speed, with no stops. Instead of burning up rubber and brakes, they take to the road again and deliver at destination.

No automobile truck has could compete with a combination road and steel rail truck line.

Louis J. Brown, president of the Kellogg Company, says: "Necessity will force industry in general to a six-hour working day, and a higher wage scale."

His firm has adopted the plan. The "higher scale," presumably, means a higher rate per hour, not per six-hour day. As machinery makes fewer men necessary, the work day and week must be shorter.

The human race must be fed, will see to it that it is fed, and in this age you can't adopt the ancient plan of killing off girl babies, thus diminishing the labor supply.

PANTAGES HELD FOR TRIAL CHILDREN SEEK POSTER PRIZE

San Diego, Cal., April 15 (US)—Alexander Pantages and his four co-defendants must face trial in superior court on charges of violating the juvenile court laws.

They were bound over by Justice of the Peace A. H. Mundo, who sat from the bench that while the prosecution's case charging the multi-millionaire showman, John P. Miller-Jesse Shreve, Olive Day and William Johnson with improper treatment of two 17-year-old girls was "not the strongest" he had ever heard, he "did feel that a case exists" warranting superior court trial.

The justice's decision came as an obvious shock to the defendants, whose hopes ran high when a short time before he dismissed a criminal attack charge against Shreve, wealthy and influential business man.

Helen Livingston, whose testimony was necessary to establish this charge against Shreve, had insisted from the witness stand that she "could not remember" what happened after she had "a four or five day strike."

More posters illustrating kindness to animals made by children in the public and parochial schools of the state, were submitted this year than in any previous year.

Contest of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, according to the monthly report of the society issued today, by President Francis H. Rowley. They number 523, and represent but a part of all that were made as teachers were asked to submit only the best of the drawings. Four hundred and twenty-five schools in 135 towns are represented. The cost of the posters will be exhibited in the Boston Public Library from April 21 to 25.

More than 14,800 pieces of literature were distributed to teachers above the second grade in connection with the observance of Humane Day in Schools, to be celebrated April 24. In March, officers of the society traveled 14,807 miles; investigated 504 cases, examined 3281 animals, made 12 prosecutions, with 12 convictions, took 61 horses from the stockyards and put to sleep 23 horses and 848 small animals. In the stockyards and abattoirs 42,677 animals were inspected, and 77 cattle, swine and sheep humanely put to sleep. The American Humane Education Society received reports of 568 new Bands of Mercy, the total number organized by the Parent-Teacher Society having reached 181,780. The Jack London Club enrolled 1755 new members during the month.

Jaunty Array of Shiny Straws

By ANN ARDEN

THE FLEETS IN—with a jaunty array of saloons from the Paris couturiers! Bateau sends a shallow crowned shiny straw in a crisp wave that has a splash drop to the brim. A tri-color band is added chic. Dacot does a trim version of the square crown—in an unusual mixed rough straw.

IF THERE has been any doubt as to whether the sailor-like straw hat would be smart this season, it is ended by the sudden appearance of any number of them. Patis, Roboux, and Patis have all concentrated on the straw sailor with the result that some flattening models have come from these houses. Patis, especially, favors a crisscross, seamed or folded crown that tends to a square silhouette.

THIS MODEL is pictured in brown chambrasse straw, a very soft quality, obviating any suggestion of stiffness. The chevron brim adds to its becomingness, as does the band and bow of plaid silk—a trimming note that combines smartly with many dark colors.

PLAIDS CONTINUE to brighten our days. Witness this jaunty scarf. Tied high about the neck, cravat fashion, the plaid scarf obligingly assumes enough colors to be wearable with almost any ensemble. Plaid and stripes with tweeds are a swagger note that go gallily into the spring.

There are rumors that the vogue for plaid will last far into the linen and gingham season when plaids change from the dark tones to lighter, brighter shades.

THE NEWEST notion of the beret is one that wears a brim. The beret, crown usually wears a cloche style and is of soft fabric pulled to the side, beret-fashion, over both ears.

A matter of fact, crown interest is the newest wrinkle in millinery. For dressed colors are smart for the coming season.

THE AGNES hat pictured has a crown of wool velvet in rose red and a cloche band, wider on one side, of navy blue Milan straw—a band of the straw extends across front and one side of the crown.

THESE SOFT crown hats are the scene of confusion. They are light, airy and admirably introduce the important role of contrast, sometimes three or more colors may be combined.

ALTHOUGH THE "formed" hat is sponsored this year, there are plenty of soft, squishy hats, little specks of hats that fall into a mere, soft, squishy hat. For early spring wear hats are fairly small, due to contrast, the necessity of wearing coats—but as the season advances they grow larger and expand spectacularly, swirling and swooping flatteringly in the way of brims.

Mrs. Hearst Entertains for Duke and Duchess

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

New York, April 18.—The spring room of the fashionable Ritz Tower was the scene last evening of one of the most brilliant entertainments of the "little season" when Mrs. William Randolph Hearst entertained at supper and dancing in honor of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, who arrived in New York a few days ago on route from Florida and Mexico to their home in England.

The Sutherlands, who make annual trips to these shores, are highly popular in metropolitan society, and during the English social season always entertain large groups of American friends at the Sutherland ancestral seat, Dunrobin Castle, and at their London residences, Hampton House, in Green St.

Mrs. Hearst invited last evening a number of close friends of the Sutherlands, and it was a jolly gathering.

DEMAND FOR AN EXTRA SESSION IN CONGRESS

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Renewed insistence on an extra session of Congress to deal with unemployment and agricultural distress came today from Senators Walsh (D.), Montana, and New (R.), North Dakota.

Administration leaders maintained their opposition.

"Congress should be here," New said, "to provide means for the Federal Farm Board to function during the coming crop year or we will face the gravest emergency in the history of the country."

"I was afraid how old at the Bureau," she said.

When he returned, she said, his clothes were dirty and he had no hat. She found his car about three or four feet off the highway between Wellesley and Wellesley Hills.

ALIENS ADMIT SMUGGLING INTO U. S.

Admissions that they were smuggled into this country have been obtained from several of the 47 aliens arrested in Danbury, Conn. Sunday, and brought to East Boston to await deportation. Mrs. Anne C. M. Tillman, immigration commissioner here, announced today.

She said that 12 of the 47 aliens, a group known as the "Danbury Seven," had been admitted to the country in violation of the law.

"Practically all of those heard as far have admitted being smuggled in and they know they must be deported and haven't been bothered getting counsel," she said.

Full reports will be made to Washington on the 12th. The 47 aliens, who were arrested at the Danbury station, have been working in a mill.

It was learned that aliens in the Danbury group had paid several hundred dollars each in South America and had been placed on ships as stowaways, with the knowledge of the crews.

To Wed Speed King

It was a beautiful wedding when they met and they arrived in Worcester at about dinner time.

After dinner, the next question was how to pass the evening. A visit to the movies was the answer, and they set out for Worcester's temple of the cinema.

It seems that they were not the only ones with that particular idea, for when they arrived at the theater, they found a large proportion of the city's population crowding around the doors, clamoring for admittance.

Thurston, however, when they relieved the idea of waiting in line, bidding the captain to wait for him, Charlie hunted up the manager of the theater, introduced himself and explained that he was a newspaperman from Boston.

He said that they wanted to see the show, but did not want to stand in line, and asked the manager if he could purchase seats. The manager refused to take his money and insisted on having him come into the show as a guest of the house.

"Wait a minute," said Charlie, "until I get my friend."

"Come along," he bade the manager, "I've fixed it."

"Charlie, you shouldn't have done that," protested Thurston. "I don't like to go about trading my name."

"I wish you hadn't told him who I was," cried Charlie, "I didn't. I told him who I was."

One of his friends stopped Jack (Mayfair) Roberts on the street and complimented him on his smart attire.

"How do you get the money to dress as well?" he asked Jack. "What are you working at these days?"

"Didn't you hear?" beamed Jack. "I'm Jack Howard's velvet."

Man About Town

—By AL DUFFY—

It happened more than a year ago, but the fact that Howard Thurston is again in town, coupled with the fact that it has not been told before makes it timely.

Charlie Sawyer, the photographer, and Thurston have been friends for years. Whenever he is in Boston, the magician and Charlie manage to see each other at least once a day and sit around for a while.

WOMAN RABBIT VICTIM IN REVERE

Police Want to Question the Helper Who Accompanied Cagliano

A North End man, known as "Big Swede," was sought by police today for questioning on the axe slaying of Mariano Cagliano, 65, of Sheafe st., North End.

Cagliano was found hacked to death yesterday in a shack off Conant st., Revere, where he worked a small farm.

The bloodstained weapon, found near the body, was examined for fingerprints, and a check-up of all Cagliano's acquaintances in the North End and Revere was ordered. Robbery was ascribed as the motive for the slaying in view of a missing $25 and turn-out trouser pockets.

WENT WITH SUSPECT

In company with the man for whom the police are searching, Cagliano left his home in Sheafe st. yesterday morning.

Apparently on his way to his little farm, where he and his companion had made plans to do some planting, Cagliano stopped in a grocery store for some articles of food. A bundle of groceries and provisions was found unopened in the shack.

Mrs. Cagliano, who had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Rapino at 9 Chelsea st., East Boston, decided after noon to journey to Revere and wait her husband at the little farm.

WIFE FINDS BODY

On entering the shack she found the body of her husband lying on the floor, surrounded by blood. His body lay between two rooms of which led off the kitchen.

She screamed and rushed to the nearest telephone and summoned her son-in-law, Patrick Rapino, an East Boston undertaker.

The police said that Cagliano had apparently been given no chance for his life, having been struck from behind.

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, left the Boston Airport this morning at 8:30 on a transcontinental plane service that is scheduled to see him down in Los Angeles at 5:30 tomorrow afternoon.

This trip is the first step in his plan to head "The Trail of the Vikings" to Europe for his trip to California to obtain a plane which will be used in the trail-making flight.

Two planes will take off from Boston, probably late in June, on this journey. They will fly to Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and the Faroe Islands, where they will arrive, en route to London, Antwerp, Paris, and the other to Copenhagen, Stockholm, Oslo and Berlin.

The purpose is to demonstrate to the government that this is the most practical way to cross the ocean. Both planes will carry mail.

7 FINED $2600 IN RUM CASES

Fines totaling $2600 were assessed on seven liquor law violators in Federal Court today by Judge James A. Lowell.

Mrs. Philomena Garino of Oakes st., Everett, was given a six months suspended sentence and placed on probation for a year. Her husband, Joseph, was fined $500.

"That place was a clearing house for bootleggers," said Asst. U. S. Atty. John D. Rime, adding that 1300 gallons of alcohol and 68 cases of assorted liquors were seized in the Garino home.

Other fines included: Abraham Sison, Revere, $200; Adolph Dupuis, Fall River, $200; Joseph Lampart, Quincy, also of Everett, $300; Ralph Fellman, Worcester, $200; Iner Staka, Worcester, $200; Albert Shief, Brookline, $100; Dominic Alessandro, West End, $250.

These were given suspended jail sentences also and placed on probation, as were Fr. Staka and John Sloan of Worcester; Benjamin Brennan, Roxbury; Angelo Setro, Savoy Marini and Nicholas Ingaradi, East Boston.

Anthony Cataldo, Revere; John Stralagakis, Marlboro, and John J. Donahue, Methuen, were defaulted.

RICHES WEIGH ON MAN'S MIND

The burden of riches proved too much for Anthony Parawski, 45, a former miner, of 53 Cottage st., Lynn, who was taken to Lynn Hospital for mental observation today after leaping from a window.

After telling police he had too much money and everyone was trying to rob him, Parawski displayed a bankbook showing deposits of $3000, a bag containing $75 in gold pieces, three gold watches and three diamond rings.

Fellow miners said, after working as a coal miner in Pennsylvania for years, he returned to Lynn last fall to enjoy life. Worrying about his money unsettled his mind, police believed.

CONNORS MAY BE NEW CHIEF

Police Captain Daniel W. Connors of Newford heads the list for chief in that city, according to announcements by the State Civil Service Commission today. It is expected that Mayor Edward H. Larkin will name Connors chief immediately as he had stated he would appoint the man who led the field.

Following in order were Lieut. William J. McLaughlin, P. Frank Ward, Charles H. Ewell and William A. Golding. Lieut. Ewell heads the list of those who took the examination for a captaincy some time ago and may be named to Connors' place if he is elevated to chief.

The chief's office has been vacant since the death of Chief John E. Welch last year.

BUSINESS MEN SHOW THEIR ART

Among pieces of sculpture that will be shown at the fourth annual exhibition of the Boston Business Men's Art Club, which opens today at the Boston Art Club, is "Reclining Figure" by Hale Powers, of Brookline. Dr. Powers spends much of his time in the evenings and week ends at the club. Powers is associated with the Veterans' Bureau.

Why many motors develop as high as 20%
as more power with Esso

It would be incorrect to state that Esso will develop the same increase in power in every car. Generally speaking, the higher the "compression ratio" of your motor, the greater the power that you get with Esso.

This means, of course, that the most remarkable results with Esso will be found with modern-type motors—in the majority of cars built in the past three or four years.

Actual tests show that the difference in power between ordinary gasolines and Esso in this type of motor may run as high as 20%. An increase you can notice the very first mile you drive with this fuel!

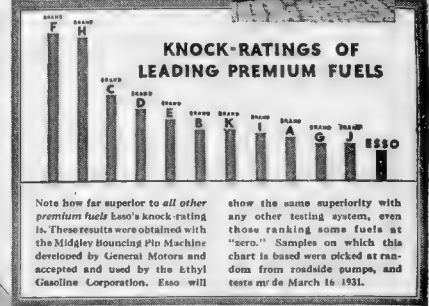

Esso, however, should not be classed with ordinary motor fuels. Note the comparison in the chart at the right with the finest premium fuels heretofore obtainable. Here is one of the most important reasons for the new sensational power Esso has made possible.

Esso is in no sense an experiment. It was developed in the laboratories of the world's leading oil company. Its success had already swept from

New York to the Gulf and throughout eleven of the chief countries of Europe.

Make a 10-day test of Esso in your own car. Start it today—you'll feel the added power as you drive away.

So-called "dull" children may be cramming outside wit knowledge infinitely more useful than what they gather from books. And the prize pupils may have only the parrot's gift. Yet nobody can be sure. Only life can tell, meaning the world outside.

Cellini was prouder of a salt-cellar he made than of a statue he put together. Michelangelo wanted himself to be the inventor of a table fork. What is needed now is for some one to invent a non-sliding garter for males.
